I would like to know why there is a deadline or a specific time set for each injury for a person to recover.

I hurt my back in january/02 and was cut off in august/02.

I went through all the stages to appeal the decision and just to be refused over and over again.

My doctor has fought on my behalf, (who has seen me dozens of times), and not succeeded. WCB had me see their doctor and then the appeal board doctors (who only saw me once), and then report my doctor is wrong.

How the heck can we fight that. Why are we now seeing their doctors on a regular basis instead, right from the original injury if our own doctors are not competent in their eyes?

Two years later I am still in pain and living on assistance. I have lost so much and have gone into debt which has been really hard physically and emotionally.

We can't fight WCB and that is not fair.

They think I left a job I love to become humiliated at food banks and welfare offices.

My health, attitude, outlook and just plain mental state has deteriorated to the lowest point.

THIS IS NOT FAIR.

Extremely frustrated
