Please see if anything can be done about making it possible for anyone who works for others to at least have worker`s compensation when they are injured on the job.

Private clubs like XX who hire at least a dozen temporary employees during the busiest time of the year are not covering their employees with any benefits whatsoever.

It is also impossible to buy disability insurance for a tow truck driver, we know, we tried.

These employees though trained for 2 weeks to do their job can be easily injured at this type of work. They are asked to put in long hours, night and day, this makes it even more possible for injuries since they are overworked. Only when they become full time which very few get that advantage are they covered with some benefits, and that is after the busy season is over, a few are hired for full time.
